MISCELLANEOUS READING. A SICKLES CASE ON A THRONE. - An Infuriated King-The shooting of his private secretary by King Kamehameha, of the Sandwich Islands, has been briefly noticed. The secretary was A. H. Neilson, an American, and the shooting took place during a yachting excursion, the King having gotten drunk for the occasion. An account of the affair

"He arrived on shore about 10 o'clock, and ordered his servant to call Hopkins, McKibben, and Neilson; when they came out he was sitting on the piazza; seemed morose and excited; ordered his servant to bring him his pistols; whipped him and sent him to prison because he did not get them quick enough; and the King followed him up and shot him. It is rumored that immediately after the occurrence the King refused to Mr. McKibben, his surgeon, the privilege of attending Neilson, threatening to shoot him if he went near the house to which Neilson had been removed. The next morning, however, he sent for McKibben, and requested him to render Neilson all the assistance in his power. It is said that the King beat the Queen tance of the first line, to the division line between Barker and McCormick; thence southwardly with the Queen and threatened to shoot her and his child. Rumor assigns the cause of the act to jealousy of the Queen-a feeling believed by the entire community to be with out a shadow of foundation. The King, although impetuous, has hitherto conducted himself in such a manner as to win the respect and esteem of the entire foreign community; consequently they were thunderstruck on receiving the news of the tragedy.-For days it was the great topic of conversation. Many were indignant that the King, being above the law, should so openly transgress it; but the prevailing feeling was that of regret. Mr. Neilson, immediately atter being shot, was removed to a house outside the palace ground, and Dr. H. B. White was called to dress the wound. The wound, although dangerous, is not considered fatal.

supposed he intended to abdicate, but the government organ officially contradicted that Believe.-Dr. Johnson could not find the primary meaning nor the origin of the word elieve. It was formed from the Gothic Belifian, which is something by which a per-son lives. When a man believes anything he adapts his life to it. Hence the great signifiance of this word. When a man professes to believe Christianity, and fails to conform his life to it, he thereby shows that he does not believe what he professes. There are many opinion may be correctly applied. Plate said
